- II. Text Guidelines (p. 1)
- III.

Double-space the quote from the text with two tab spaces from the left-hand margin, unless your quote is from the beginning of a paragraph in your source, in which case you indent the first line of the quote one

III. Endnotes

- a. A complete page of endnotes can be found in section 7 of this form sheet.
- b. Due to automatic word processing, the endnote number in the text will be raised slightly over the line of the text and should be placed at the end of the sentence to which it refers.

c. Sample Endnote Entries:

1. Book by a single author:

¹ John Gillingham, Conquest and the Making of Medieval Britain (New York: Times Books, 2001), 147.

2. Book by two authors:

² Liam P. Unwin and Joseph Galway, Conquest and the Making of Medieval Britain (Boston: Stronghope Press, 1984), 25.

3. Book by three or more authors:

³ Charlotte Marcus et al., Conquest and the Making of Medieval Britain (Boston: Broadview Press, 1990), 152.

4. Article in a journal:

⁴ Alan Harding, "Political Liberty in the Middle Ages," Journal of Medieval Studies 55, no. 2 (1980), 431.

⁵ Christopher S. Mackay, "Lactantius and the Succession to Diocletian," Journal of Medieval Studies 94, no. 2 (1999), 205.

5. Article in a dictionary or encyclopedia:

⁶ Leland C. Burrows, "Algeria" in World Encyclopedia, ed. William E. Echard (Westport, CT.: Greenwood Press, 1985), 12.

6. Article in a newspaper:

⁷ Mike Royko, "Next Time, Dan, Take Aim at Arnold," Chicago Tribune, September 23, 1992.

⁸ "Pushcarts Evolve to Trendy Kiosks," Lake Forest News (Lake Forest, IL), March 23, 2000.

7. Second or later references in the endnotes to the same source:

a) If no intervening title appears use the Latin abbreviation Ibid. E.g., if you have just cited the book by Gillingham in endnote 1 (as above) and the next footnote is a reference to the same book, the form would be:

⁹ Ibid., 172.

b) If some other title is cited before you cite the Gillingham book, do not use Ibid. Simply put down the author's last name and page number. The only exception to this is when you are using more than one title by the same author, in which case it will be necessary to include an abbreviated title.

8. Author's work translated or edited by another:

¹⁰ Georges Duby, The Economy and Society of Medieval Europe, trans. Cynthia Postan (Columbia: University of South Carolina Press, 1999), 14.

9. Secondary source of citation:

¹¹ W.E. Heitland, The Norman Conquest (Cambridge: University Press, 1922) cited by Bryce Lyon, The Norman Conquest (New York: W.W. Norton & Company, 1972), 42.

10. Essay from a collection of essays in a book:

¹² A. C. Crombie, "Quantification in Medieval Physics," in Science in the Middle Ages, ed. Sylvia Thrupp (New York: Appleton-Century-Crofts, 2004), 197.

11. Edition other than the first:

¹³ Joseph Strayer, Medieval Europe, 2nd ed. (Englewood Cliffs, NJ: Prentice-Hall, Inc., 1988), 68.

12. Multi-volume work:

¹⁴ Marc Bloch, The Feudal Society, vol. 2 (London: Rutledge & Kegan Paul Ltd., 2001), 302.

13. Part of multi-volume work by different authors:

¹⁵ H. J. Scheltea, "Byzantine Law," Cambridge Medieval History, vol. 4, part 2, 2nd ed., ed. Joan Hussey (Cambridge: University Press, 1999), 59.
